

BEATRIX FARRAND
1650 ORLANDO ROAD
SAN MARINO, CALIFORNIA

March 26, 1941.

Miss Anne Sweeney,
3245 "S" Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Miss Sweeney:-

This list of deciduous trees is returned to you. I am not at all sure I understand what all the T.D's, 2 A's and so forth mean, but probably it makes sense to you! As I have already sent the index to you I am a little blank on this labelling.

Personally, I think the labelled information which you plan to paste on the back of the panels would be very ugly if put on the front also. As to the book situation I really think you don't need to worry about that. If the book is finally written (which I doubt) I think some one like Mrs. Bliss, herself, or Miss Horneman will have to tackle it.

I do think well of getting a lettering outfit from Dietzgen. You might get the price of this and let me know.

Mr. Thatcher wrote me a nice letter recently suggesting a visit to Santa Barbara before my visit to Washington, and yesterday I talked to Mr. and Mrs. Bliss and they are enthusiastic over the suggestion, and I hope to see him in Santa Barbara in the week between April 7th and 11th, so anything you would like me to take up with him or them, please have in my hands before that time.

You may imagine in what a state of frantic hub-bub we are, moving in three different directions at once, so that your catalogue list seems to me positively infantile in its simplicity.

Yours very truly,

Beatrix Farrand