Washington, D. C.

Dear Miss Sweeney:

Some weeks ago I sent you a short lot of revised notes for Dumbarton Oaks by air-mail, hoping you would have time and would be kind enough to do a single triple-spaced copy and give it to Mrs. Bliss to look over and see if she thought it improved.

For some time I forgot the whole matter as there have been a good many things in mind, but now just before I leave here for Reef Point it occurs to me to write and ask if they had ever reached you, together with a letter of personal news and interchange.

Let me know how things go and how you are, perhaps now on Easter holiday.

My best, as always to you.

Ever yours sincerely,

Beatrice Farrand
